Patriots Energy Group

To understand the Patriots Energy Group (PEG) pipeline system, it is essential to delve into the infrastructure and operations of PEG as a joint action agency serving the Gas Authorities of York, Chester, and Lancaster Counties in Central Upstate South Carolina just south of Charlotte, NC.

A Joint Action Agency is an entity usually consisting of utility companies, municipalities who own public utilities, and/or municipalities (natural gas authorities) who purchase energy from private utilities. These entities act jointly for making decisions regarding the acquisition and delivery of energy resources or related services. Joint Action Agencies are a resource that utilities can use to accomplish their goals of providing safe, and low-cost natural gas supply/capacity and services to their members in an efficient and effective manner. Shared costs and mutual support make the effort manageable and provide an effective interface to the ever-growing complexity of the US natural gas industry.
